Love is by far the most important and powerful thing one can experience in a lifetime.

I'd like to thank everyone who shared their unconditional love with both my mother and father. It was the driving force behind what they did and who they were. Along with giving them the confidence to share their ideas with the world, it taught them to appreciate diversity and crave different points of view. Your love gave them the strength to persevere in the face of adversity as well as the ability reach beyond imposed limitations.

Opening your hearts showed them the best of humanity and as a result, assured them that the optimistic future they hope for would soon to be a reality.

In the end, your love gave them the greatest gift they could have hoped for... the ability to give it back. For that, I love you all.

"... Today, we honor the human race for what it has achieved, but what we really should be honoring are our ideas. Gene believed in the greatness of the human spirit, our sense of discovery, our ability to go beyond the limitations of the present, and through imagination and determination, into a wondrous future. We will survive this century, and its seemingly insurmountable problems, and we will do it believing in the dreams of a man who saw the goodness in all of us."
